Parent Training to equip YOU to teach your child to talk!

It Takes Two to Talk

It Takes Two to Talk – The Hanen Program for Parents is a family-focused program for parents of young children who have language delays. It Takes Two to Talk is based on years of research and addresses:

- ❑ The need for early language intervention
- ❑ The importance of parents' involvement in their child's intervention

It Takes Two to Talk is run by a Hanen Certified speech-language pathologist (SLP) specially trained at a Hanen Workshop. Through activities and group discussions, a small group of parents learn to create and take advantage of everyday opportunities to help their child communicate and use language. The program's combination of group training sessions and individual consultations using video feedback provides a personalized approach to each family.

The program is recommended for parents of children ranging from those who are non-verbal to those who are beginning to combine words to form short sentences.

Program Format and Content – A Master's level Hanen certified, Speech-Language Pathologist leads a small group of parents through the It Takes Two to Talk Program. The program combines group training sessions for parents with individual consultation and videotaping sessions. It includes:

- ❑ A pre-program consultation –The Hanen Certified SLP evaluates the child's communication, begins to identify communication goals, and videotapes the parents interacting with their child.
- ❑ Five group training sessions-(2 ½ hours each, every other week) Parents learn specific strategies to facilitate their child's interaction and communication skills, and gain valuable support from other parents in the group. Information learned will include the strategies to get your child communicating through "Observe, Wait and Listen," Follow Your Child's Lead, Keep the Conversation Going, and Add Language to the Interaction, and many more!
- ❑ Three individual consultations with video feedback for each family – The Hanen Certified SLP videotapes parents applying the strategies learned in the group sessions, and gives them specific coaching and feedback.
